Expressionism is a modernist movement, initially in poetry and painting, originating in Germany at the beginning of the 20th century. Its typical trait is to present the world solely from a subjective perspective, distorting it radically for emotional effect in order to evoke moods or ideas. Dada (/ ˈd ʌ d ʌ /) or Dadaism was an art movement of the European avant-garde in the early 20th century, with early centers in Zürich, Switzerland, at the Cabaret Voltaire (circa 1916); New York Dada began circa 1915, and after 1920 Dada flourished in Paris. Developed in reaction to World War I, the Dada movement consisted of artists who rejected the logic, reason, and aestheticism ... Expressionism was certainly not a school, in the sense that it was not a question of a number of artists forming a group on the basis of a specific program and devoting themselves to the same techniques. Rather, expressionism represents a state of mind which, in the intellectual field, has affected ... On the banks of the Rhine, the city of Cologne (which Germans call "Köln") is home to Germany's greatest Gothic cathedral, its best collection of Roman artifacts, a world-class art museum, and a healthy dose of urban playfulness. - German Expressionists A Generation In Re
