

Download Second Defense Of The People Of England

the second defence of the people of england, against an anonymous libel "the royal blood crying to heaven for vengeance on the english parricides." translated from the latin, by robert fellowes, a. m. oxon. Second Defense of the People of England has 7 ratings and 0 reviews. Legal justification for the execution of King Charles I. 1653. Defensio Secunda was a 1654 political tract by John Milton, a sequel to his Defensio pro Populo Anglicano. It is a defence of the Parliamentary regime, by then controlled by Oliver Cromwell; and also defense of his own reputation against a royalist tract published under the name Salmasius in 1652, and others criticism lodged against him. Milton's Second Defense of the English People A response to The Cry of the Royal Blood published in August, 1652 by Pierre Du Moulin.. Summary of The Cry of the Royal Blood. Du Moulin—"The majesty of kings has been sacred in all ages, since it is the image of the divine, the well-being of the people, and the life of the laws." - Second Defense Of The People Of England